Hucksters Charged With Selling From Short Measures.

Housekeepers Advised Not to Patronize Them Unless the Law Is Complied With-Question of Placing Tax Notices on Vacant Lots.

Col. W. C. Haskell, Sealer of Weights and Measures for the District, has inaugurated an inspection of the measures used by hucksters, with a view to stopping dishonest dealing through the sale of vegetables and other articles in vessels not up to standard capacity. Mr. Haskell states that his attention has been called many times to the practice of hucksters selling potatoes, for example, at less price than that asked by the regular dealers, and he said that the opinion had be done except on the basis of short

Mr. Haskell stated that owing to the short force in his office he had been unable until recently to take up the matter. Since the appointment of Leo S. Schoen-thal as a second assistant in his office, Mr. Haskell said, he had been in a posttion to give some attention to the huck-sters, and he declared that he would not let up until every one in the District used an honest measure. Mr. Haskell received a report yesterday from his assistant, in which the results of one of the first inspections is given, and which resulted in short. The report is by Mr. Schoenthal and follows:

"On Saturday last, as directed, I watched the wagons of a number of street ven-ders, or hucksters, who were operating within my territory, and found the foilowing evidence against two of them; On Sixth Street southeast, between G and H, I observed the wagon of one who was reported to me as being in charge of Har-vey Brown, of 744 Navy Place. Brown proceeded with a sample of his ware to 776 Sixth Street. He returned and filled $5,000; to the Methodist Home, $5,000; to his sister-in-law, Abbie J. Emery, the testator bequeaths $2,000, and to each of premises just as the lady had finished paying for the potatoes. I asked the man how many potatoes he had there and he replied a peck. He admitted having measured them in the bucket, and first said that the way they had of measuring would make a half peck weigh more than the number of pounds required by law. Upon asking a few questions of him he

'T'll bet they are not four potatoes out of the way." The second case was in reference to the property of Edward Brown, residing on L Street southeast. Lawrence Burgess, a helper on the wagon, offered for sale at 722 I Street southeast, a bucket of potatoes, representing them to be a half peck. The dy was just about to pay for them when formed of the shortage. Burgess first admitted using the bucket as a measure and said he was told to do so by Brown Afterward he denied, and claimed that he had used a measure. In both cases I personally saw the measures used.

"A lawful half peck contains 338 cubic inches, while these buckets contain 236 cubic inches or about 27 per cent less than a lawful half peck. "These are but two of the many like nstances occurring every day, whereby the housekeeper is duped and the respectable merchant made to compete with prices that are often less than the whole sale rates. I have measured and weighed potatoes in these two buckets, which i confiscated, and find that the highest weight obtained for potatoes packed in and piled in cone-shape, the top of which is six inches above the measure, to be but five and one-half pounds, or two pounds less than the weight required by law for the half peck."

Williams, who was then in the Sixth precinct, but who is now in the Third, was awarded this medal in competition with pounds less than the weight required by law for the half peck."

The privates of the department who are on the eligible ist will contest for the medals next week, when the centest will be returned at the National Guard amount with the stamp of the Sealer of Weights and Measures of the District of Columbia. He said he hoped the people would aid him in this way and report every vender who offers vegetables in the short-weight buckets.
